

TRANSCRIPT PREPARED BY THE CLERK OF THE LEGISLATURE
Transcriber's Office
FLOOR DEBATE

March 25, 2004 LB 172

on. It's hard for me to persuade him, and I know I won't, but that doesn't mean I'm not going to take a lot of time and put things into the record. And as tired as people might get, based on what Senator Combs said, and despite the fact that they might have to up their prescription, that's just a part of being a member of the Legislature. And I think it would be good if I'd get some compensation for the instructing I do about the nature of the Legislature, the constitution and our duties. Believe it or not, what I do is a concrete object lesson about legislating and functioning in a legislative body. You all may not know this. I could function anywhere they have a Legislature.

SENATOR CUDABACK: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: I could function in parliament, in any parliament anywhere in the world, because I know how to give it, I know how to take it, I know how to learn the rules and I know how to be effective. I could function in the House or the U.S. Senate. I wouldn't go up there looking around, scared and shaken and nervous and wondering who don't like what I'm going to say. These are mere human beings. They don't own me. They'd like to. So I could function anywhere, but that cannot be said for my colleagues because they have trouble functioning here. If you used your best judgment, you wouldn't do so many things to hurt our womenfolk from the time they're little until the time they go to the grave. Thank you, Mr. President.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Further discussion? Senator Schimek.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Yes, thank you, Mr. President and members. I hope this is the last time that I get up to speak, but there are some things that are...that are being said here this morning that I really think ought to be addressed. And, Senator Combs, your words about some of the issues and having a third point of view perhaps is something that we all need to...something about which we all need to reflect. Senator Chambers, I was just about going to end that sentence in a preposition. But, Senator Combs, on the issue of abstinence, I do think there's common ground there. I think that most of us who are, hopefully, thoughtful people, would agree that abstinence education is
